

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter consists of conclusion and suggestion related to what the writer has analyzed and discussed.

A. Conclusion

Based on the previous discussion and analysis of the student's problem in daily English speaking activity, the researcher concludes that:

1. Student's Problems in Daily English Speaking Activity is about component of speaking vocabulary, pronunciation, and grammar.
 - a. Student's problem in vocabulary caused by they are still a new students. They need to adjust new things in a new place. And they have to memorize new vocab every day. They will be a little surprised by that. So they have to prepare long terms memories.
 - b. Students need adjustment to make the pronunciation good and perfect. The students must know how to say a word that is how to pronounce it.
 - c. Without grammar, language will have no meaning if it is used for conversation. When it is wrong to use grammar, a misunderstanding will occur. So students are required to understand and know the formula of grammar.
2. Student's Psychological Problem in Daily English Speaking (fear of making mistake, shyness, anxiety, lack of confidence, and lack of motivation).

- a. Students' problem in fear of mistake because of they are have not mastered the vocabulary, pronunciation and the grammar.
- b. Students' problem about shyness, anxiety, and lack of confidence are almost the same psychological problems. Because this problem involves feelings that affect their mentally. If that feeling arises, they choose to be quite.
- c. Islamic boarding school is place to practice independence. So, for those who are just entering the school, they will be a little surprised by the situation that requires them to be fully independent. When they face difficulties, they must wake up. New students will feel a lack of motivation. Because they do not yet know how to rise from a completely independent situation.
- d. Sometimes parents, teachers and children have the same goal but with different ways to pursue that goal. These differences make them misunderstand each other. Then the problems they face a rise, and the main goal of the problem is a child. Many reasons that make them have this problem. The hardest when they face psychological affects all activities caused by the brain and body. If their psychological is not balanced, then the planned process that had been planned would not succeed.

B. Suggestions

Based on the result of the research finding, the writer would like to give some suggestions for the following people.

1. For Teacher

Getting students to speak English every day at Islamic boarding schools is very good. Because if the students are accustomed to such an environment, the students will get used to speak and mastering English for communication every day. But the teachers must also pay attention to their abilities and proficiency levels. For a new student like those of the tenth grade, they have to accept vocab a lot. And of course they not only accept, but also produce it every day so that they do not forget them. Teachers should look for new methods of innovation to improve students' memories ability, not just using methods of translating or making conversations. Teachers can use sharing methods or other interesting methods.

The teacher and students must be close. Because they are need motivation to keep achieving, and run the language rules. If the teachers and students build chemistry, it will facilitate shared goals that will not harm both parties.

2. For Students

The students increase their studying at dormitory or in the class. They should improve their speaking skills by continuing to speak in English without having to be embarrassed or have other problems.

Because they are still new, new vocabulary that they get every day from additional classes they use as well as possible.

Students do not need to be afraid of facing criticism or punishment. They should learn from mistakes. Motivation must continue to be increased for own success later.

3. For The Future Researcher

For the future researchers who want to conduct research is the same subject, the result of the study can be used as an additional reference or inspiring discussion.
