CHAPTER VI

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter presents the conclusion of the verbs used in the news articles. The researcher devided the content in two points. They are conclusion and suggestion. The explanation of each point is presented as follow.

A. Conclusion

A news article is a piece of writing that describes current or recent events of general interest (daily newspapers) or of a special issue (political or trade periodicals, club newsletters, or technological news websites). In addition, the writing form of news articles or reports has different language characteristics and purposes from other types of texts. Since the function of the text is to describe or inform certain facts or information to the reader, the use of certain specific verbs becomes very common in the text. This research aims to reveal the verb classes used in news articles. Learners can use information about verbs used in news report writing to confirm more information about appropriate verbs often used in news reports. It can be used to help learners improve their mastery of the text of news articles, and can also be used as a supplementary reference for using appropriate verbs to describe information to support their communication practices.

The findings of the study show that 16,301 verbs were used in the newspaper article corpus, and the total token count in the corpus was 98,432 words. In other words, 16.56% of all tokens in the body of newspaper articles were found in the form of verbs. In this study, the researcher classified verbs according to Beth Levin (1993) English verb class categories. Therefore, twenty-six verb categories were found in the top 100 verbs rank. The result of the study showed that the most verb used was the verbs of sending and carrying. Which the verbs of sending and carrying itself relate to causing an entity to change location and describe the causation of accompanied motion. Besides, it is the highest number among all categories in the corpus of Thai broadcast articles in Cable News Network.

B. Suggestion

Based on the conclusion there are several suggestions for the students, teacher and future researcher. Considering the importance of the classes of verb especially the verbs used in news article. For students who are willing to conduct a research on the same topic, it will hopefully give a clear understanding in learning the classes of verbs. Until it can be helpful for the students in acknowledging or understanding news article. Because, verbs are very important to language development as they allow the students to start building early sentences. Every sentence needs a verb. And the choice of the verb determines the many grammatical forms in the sentence. Besides, As a teacher, this can be useful way in taking this finding study to be another source in teaching learning English. The Researcher suggests paying attention to the importance of vocabulary and determining the material of the vocabulary, especially verbs. Although the teacher can use course books or materials in the course, the best thing is that teachers also obtain some other materials from solid data to complete the data to achieve learning goals, and use them to enable students use verbs in communicate properly. Finally, for the next researcher, the researcher hopes this can be referenced in doing the same study and the researcher suggests finding the gap and lack of this study to conduct better research in the future.