

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

This chapter deals with the conclusion of the study on realization of moral values in Looking for Alaska novel written by Jhon Green. Some suggestions are also put forward to those who are concerned in English Language Teaching.

A. Conclusion

Based on the research finding and data discussions in previous chapter, the researcher concludes that in the Looking for Alaska novel, there are moral values conveyed by author where the most dominant is the values that are being conveyed explicitly, can be easily seen by the readers. Based on the analysis, the result reveals that there are moral values in Looking for Alaska novel written by Jhon Green which are presented through the actions and statements of characters as well as the depiction of the atmosphere in the novel. These moral values are about bravery, humbleness, honesty, steadfastness, sympathetic to others, cooperativeness, thankfulness, kind-hearted, trustworthiness, sincerity, and love and affection and those are really influential in education to build students' characters so that it can be used as reference for teachers as teaching materials to teach moral values.

B. Suggestions

1. To the Teachers

This study may become a reference for English teachers in the way of giving materials in teaching English using literature to the students in senior high school. This study may also provide some ways how to teach English using literature by applying several methods.

2. To the Students

This study may become an example and reference to the students how to analyze a literary text using moral approach or to other researchers who want to do research with the same theme.

3. To the Readers

The researcher hopes this study will give advantages for everyone who is concerned in the literature study and may give another view and perception in viewing literary works as media to teach English. The researcher also hopes this study provides useful information about analyzing literary works.