This study uses quantitative research methods with descriptive quantitative research. The sample amounted to 100 respondents who were taken using the Purposive Side technique. The method used in this research is multiple linear analysis method. The tests used are validity test, reliability test, classic assumption test which includes multicollinearity test, heteroscedasticity test and normality test, autocorrelation test. Hypothesis testing includes t test and F test, and coefficient of determination test.

The test using the t test shows that the results of the variable development of e-commerce company services have a significant positive effect on consumptive behavior, the product price variable has no effect on consumptive behavior, the distribution channel variable has no effect on consumptive behavior, and the advertising variable has a significant positive effect on consumptive behavior. Using the F test shows that the variables of e-commerce company service development, product prices, distribution channels, advertising have a simultaneous effect on consumptive behavior.

Keywords: Development of e-commerce company services, product prices, distribution channels, advertising in marketing, consumer behavior, Shopee.
