Perkembangan perekonomian Indonesia pada saat ini bisa diukur oleh maraknya pembangunan pusat perdagangan. Pasar memegang peranan penting dalam kegiatan ekonomi dan pembangunan perekonomian suatu negara. Melalui pasarlah kegiatan perdagangan itu dapat berjalan. Sektor perdagangan yang semakin berkembang diharapkan akan menciptakan lapangan pekerjaan yang baru bagi masyarakat dan dapat meningkatkan pendapatan masyarakat sehingga taraf hidup masyarakat pun dapat meningkat. Pemerintah memiliki peran penting dalam membantu perolehan pendapatan seseorang, salah satunya melakukan relokasi terhadap pusat perdagangan terutama pasar tradisional yang berada di daerah yang sudah tidak tepat secara tata ruang kota.

Penelitian ini bertujuan untuk mengetahui pengaruh relokasi pasar tradisional terhadap pendapatan pedagang Pasar Pamenag Pare dan Pasar Induk di Kabupaten Kediri. Sampel yang diambil pada penelitian berjumlah 91 pedagang Pasar Pamenang Pare dan 96 Pedagang Pasar Induk. Penelitian ini menggunakan pendekatan kuantitatif dengan jenis penelitian deskriptif serta metode pengambilan sampel berupa accidental sampling. Alat pengolahan data yang digunakan dalam penelitian yaitu aplikasi Eviews 10 dengan teknik analisis regresi berganda dan uji asumsi klasik. Variabel yang digunakan dalam penelitian ini terdiri dari empat variabel yaitu, modal, lama usaha, lokasi, dan jam kerja.

Hasil penelitian menunjukkan bahwa modal tidak berpengaruh terhadap pendapatan pedagang Pasar Pamenang maupun di Pasar Induk. Lama Usaha tidak berpengaruh terhadap pendapatan pedagang Pasar Pamenang maupun di Pasar Induk. Lokasi tidak berpengaruh terhadap pendapatan pedagang Pasar Pamenang maupun di Pasar Induk. ABSTRACT

The thesis entitled "Analysis of Factors Affecting the Income of Pakemenangan Pare Market Traders After the Relocation of the Main Market of Kediri Regency Based on Islamic Economic Principles" was written by Sulik Rahma Hanifa, NIM. 12402193320, supervisor Risdiana Himmati, M.Si.

The development of the Indonesian economy at this time can be measured by the rampant development of trade centers. The market plays an important role in economic activities and economic development of a country. It is through the market that trading activities can run. The growing trade sector is expected to create new jobs for the community and can increase people's income so that people's living standards can increase. The government has an important role in helping to generate one's income, one of which is relocating trading centers, especially traditional markets located in areas that are not right in urban layout.

This study aims to determine the effect of traditional market relocation on the income of Pamenag Pare Market traders and the Main Market in Kediri Regency. The samples taken in the study amounted to 91 Pakemenangan Pare Market traders and 96 Main Market Traders. This study used a quantitative approach with a type of descriptive research and a sampling method in the form of accidental sampling. The data processing tool used in the study is the Eviews 10 application with multiple regression analysis techniques and classical assumption tests. The variables used in this study consist of four variables, namely, capital, length of business, location, and working hours.

The results showed that capital had no effect on the income of Pakemenangan Market traders or in the Main Market. The length of business does not affect the income of Pakemenangan Market traders or in the Main Market. Location does not affect the income of Pakemenangan Market traders or in the Main Market. Working hours do not affect the income of Pakemenangan Market traders or in the Main Market. This research was conducted simultaneously to provide results that capital, length of business, location, working hours did not affect the income of Pakemenangan Pare Market traders and the Main Pasr of Kabupaten Kediri.
