

CHAPTER VI

CONCLUSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

This chapter deals with the conclusion which is drawn on the basis of the findings as presented in the preceding chapter. In addition, some suggestions are proposed.

A. Conclusions

Here the writer describes about the summary of the research representing the answers of the research problems.

Structure of modification found:

1. Simple pattern:
  - a. Noun as modifier of noun: Govt wrong, Night-long rain, Flood misery, Indonesian movies, Bankers' support.
  - b. Adjective as modifier of noun: New bill
  - c. Prepositional phrase as the modifier of noun: In night-long rain, In flood misery, For Indonesian movies.
2. Complex pattern:
  - a. Noun Modifying: The white man cometh, Family tax return.
  - b. Adjective Modifying: Police alert on thefts in Pluit, Local bankers' support.
  - c. Prepositional Phrase Modifying: Govt wrong on 2013 budget, Eight die in night-long rain, State of emergency in Jakarta, A passion for Indonesian movies.

B. Suggestions

This section presents some suggestions for English teaching especially the teaching grammar oriented in which the structure of modification is included. This study hopefully can help the learners or the readers to develop the ability in identifying the structure of modification which made up the sentences.

1. For English teacher

English teachers should pay attention to the structure of modification because we can not avoid to use it. Beside that they should be more contextual when they explain about structure of modification since the material of English presented most in discussing reading. It is also advisable to give students the example on how to analyze structure of modification because of its complexity.

2. For Jakarta post readers

It should be necessary for the reader to at least understand about the structure of modification process as it can facilitate the readers to comprehend the article they read.

3. For any publishers

Through this study, the writer suggest that any publishers should pay attention to the complexity and varieties of pattern of structure of modification. It will give the readers more benefits and thoughtful.

4. For next researchers

Through this study, the writer suggest that the next researcher to developpe this study with a larger complex takes from more various English writing with more clearly description and more analysis and thus resulting in more valid and save generalization.