This research is motivated by a phenomenon of the increasingly rapid competition in the beauty industry. One of the beauty products that has long been widely known by the Indonesian people is Viva Cosmetics. It is known for its low price, positive brand image and halal. However, the increasing competition in the beauty industry has an impact on the increasing circulation of various types of other beauty products, causing Viva Cosmetics products to be sidelined by consumers.

The objectives of this study include: 1) Testing the effect of halal labeling, price perception, and brand image on purchasing decisions for Viva Cosmetics products. 2) Testing the effect of halal labeling on purchasing decisions for Viva Cosmetics products. 3) Testing the effect of price perception on purchasing decisions for Viva Cosmetics products. 4) Testing the effect of brand image on purchasing decisions for Viva Cosmetics products. This study uses a quantitative approach with an associative type. The data source used is primary data from distributing questionnaires online via Google Form to FEBI students of Class of 2021 UIN Sayyid Ali Rahmatullah Tulungagung who have purchased or are currently using Viva Cosmetics products as many as 93 respondents. The sampling technique used is probability sampling with proportionate stratified random sampling. The questionnaire data were analyzed using multiple linear regression with the help of SPSS version 25.

The results of the study showed that: 1) Simultaneously (together), halal labeling, price perception, and brand image have a positive and significant effect on the purchasing decision of Viva Cosmetics products for FEBI students of Class 2021 UIN Sayyid Ali Rahmatullah Tulungagung. 2) Halal labeling has a positive and significant effect on the purchasing decision of Viva Cosmetics products for FEBI students of Class 2021 UIN Sayyid Ali Rahmatullah Tulungagung. 3) Price perception has a positive and significant effect on the purchasing decision of Viva Cosmetics products for FEBI students of Class 2021 UIN Sayyid Ali Rahmatullah Tulungagung. 4) Brand image has a positive and significant effect on the purchasing decision of Viva Cosmetics products for FEBI students of Class 2021 UIN Sayyid Ali Rahmatullah Tulungagung.
