

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this chapter the researcher explained the conclusion and suggestion. Conclusion was taken from the result of the reserach which has been done and suggestion was given information for the future reserach especially in students perception.

A. Conclusion

Based on the findings, students like teachers who are friendly even though the teacher native speaker or non native speaker. The students have positive perceptions toward personality competence of native speaker and non native speaker. It is proved that the mean of questionnaire of native speaker there are 12 questions students choose 4 to “like” and 5 to “very like”. Then the mean of questionnaire of non native speaker is 2 for “dislike” and 3 for “neutral”. It means that the students receive native or non-native as their teacher, where the teacher can give a good and pleasant impression during teaching so that it is the first way to achieve optimal learning goals. This reserach also revealed that the positive perception of students is good for teachers to understand it so that it is useful as a consideration in teaching in classes with various characteristics possessed by students. Such as most of students like a teacher that humorous and friendly, then the teacher know it the teacher can be more friendly to students so that the teacher and students look more solid.
